Dear Educator,

SoftChalk, the education company that provides the premier online lesson creation and student interaction tool, is offering assistance to academic institutions and organizations to help educators meet the demands created by school closings and the temporary shift to online course delivery during the COVID-19 threat.

SoftChalk is offering free access to SoftChalk Cloud from now through May 31, 2020 to anyone who may need it to quickly and easily create online lessons and course materials for delivery to students.

How To Quickly Get Started With SoftChalk

- Go here to open your free account
- Get started by reviewing our Video Tutorials. (This short introduction to creating an online lesson is a good place to start)
- Refer to our Quick Start Guide for any additional assistance
- Our Support Team is ready to provide assistance as needed.

Why We're Doing This

- We're educators first and we want to help our fellow educators however we can.
- Maintaining normalcy is important in such uncertain times. SoftChalk can help you quickly adapt to these new physical limitations and the need to deliver remote instruction to your students.
- We want to be part of the solution, however possible.

What Happens After May 31st?

- First, you won't be charged for anything without your explicit permission after this date. You have our word.
- We'll reassess and determine if this deadline should be extended.

For our existing customers already using SoftChalk Cloud, please feel free to reach out to us at learnmore@softchalk.com for ways we can continue to support you at this time.

Should you have any questions or concerns, please let us know.
