

Dear Educator,

Amid growing concerns about the potential spread of coronavirus (COVID-19), college campuses are closing and faculty are being asked to completely rethink how they teach.

We believe it is our responsibility to help. That's why we are making Top Hat's platform free of charge for the rest of the semester to support educators transitioning to remote teaching and learning.

Top Hat is ready to help you transition to remote teaching with dedicated training, support agents, and all the resources you need to quickly set up an online classroom.

Here are common scenarios in which Top Hat can help you minimize disruptions to teaching and learning:

- You need to continue hosting a live classroom lecture
- You have canceled classes and prefer to deliver course content online
- You need to replace in-person tests and exams

To get started, sign up for this offer. An education specialist will be in touch within 1-3 business days to help you get set up.
